

Mechanical engineering on top again

10 November 2010

Possehl Mittelstandsbeteiligungen, a division of Possehl Group, Luebeck, took over 80% of the shares of DMA Maschinen- und Anlagenbau GmbH & Co. KG in Hoexter and thus continued its successful acquisition policy.

The company is a first-class manufacturer of conveying and automation systems with a particular specialization in the area of container glass. The debt-free company employs 90 employees and has an export ratio of over 50%. Leading companies of the food industry are among its customers.

The founder of the company and sole shareholder, Mr Wilhelm Duetemeyer, considered various options together with InterFinanz for a suitable succession planning and to secure the future of the company. Finally he decided in favor of Possehl as an ideal partner.

The transaction was organized and led on behalf of Mr. Duetemeyer by InterFinanz.
